Hi folks. We hope there will not be any trouble among the weather prophets, for there seems to be two very decided, opposite predictions concerning the kind of winter we are to have. One is for much cold weather with deep snow. The other says, -mild winter with hardly any snow. Whatever comes it is a sure thing we have to take it.

Makes me think of that old rhyme

There was a small boy in Quebec who was wading in snow to his neck. When asked, "Are you frize?"

Replied, "Yes, I is, But we don't call this cold in Quebec."

One winter day a certain teacher in this town was talking to the class about health etc. When she spoke of the benefit and necessity of baths, one girl almost shouted, "What! a bath in winter? Br-r-r-r!"

Peeks folks, having lost faith in Santa to draw a crowd, have imported a pig all the way from the pigpen for their front window. It sounded much like a butchering day on the farm. We wondered if someone ought to interfere but the crowd seemed to think the pig was getting a square deal. The crowd bulged way out into the street. Small boys tugged at their mother's hand and pleaded, "Mama I want to see the peeug. I want to see the pee-ug." But they couldn't see the pig for the same reason Governor Dewey wasn't elected President.

The large stores seem to have as many clerks as customers, but the five 'n' ton is always crowded. They say Woolworths is to be enlarged and built clear back to Park St.

Yes we know what we are thinking, but it would not work. You and your nearest neighbor will always grab your pocketbooks and start for that particular spot.

I felt like writing a few words this morning and thought of that wonderful Hallelujah Chorus at Bates College, but you see the pig won out.
